Suggestions in Advertising

Advertising uses language to suggest something is true. It makes you want to buy something.

What the ad says	What you think
Wear one of our breathtaking carnival costumes!	Other costumes are not as nice.
Get samba lessons for only $350!	At other schools lessons are more expensive.
Experience the culture of Carnival in Brazil!	You cannot experience the culture of Brazil without us.
Book your place in the parade today!	Tomorrow is too late.
Special offer: Free dance instructions with each booking.	We don't usually offer this.

The Imperative in Advertising

You use the Imperative in advertising to create excitement!
There is no subject.
The verb is at the beginning of the sentence, so it is stressed.

A negative Imperative begins with Don't.

Examples:

- Be part of the wild celebration!
- Learn how to dance the samba!
- Get into the Carnival spirit!
- Don't just watch the parade!
